

Amale Hourani: short bio

Amale has been a translator and member of AUSIT since 2004 and specializes in scientific translation. She started her professional life as an educator in mathematics and information technology and continued in management positions in the education sector in which she has formal qualifications. Through her involvement in not-for-profit activities, she became an advocate for environmental sustainability and social justice.